Democratic Rally at Mokena Draws An Enthusiastic Crowd

The campaign for Democratic votes in eastern Will County was launched Tuesday night when county and state candidates addressed an enthusiastic meeting held in the parlors of the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena.

George N. Blatt, Joliet attorney, spoke in behalf of Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor. He traced the public career of the Cook county jurist from the time he was admitted to the Illinois bar, thru the years he distinguished himself as judge of the largest probate court in the nation.

Mr. Blatt spoke of Judge Horner's rugged honesty and his sympathy for the masses of the people he has always served as a public administrator. He emphasized his vigorous manner in which the Democratic standard bearer attacked problems dealing directly with the public interest, and paid tribute to his calmness in discussing the issues of the campaign.

"He speaks with directness," Mr. Blatt said, "and his public utterances during this campaign reveals the judge's fine legal mind. He has been enthusiastically received in all quarters of the state, all of which is testimony enough that the people of this state are eager to avail themselves of the sort of leadership he is capable of."

John P. Haley, Joliet attorney spoke for the national ticket. He contrasted the action of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in dealing with the present emergency to that employed by President Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Haley said: "In March, 1933, Governor Roosevelt appointed a committee in New York state to stabilize industry during the crisis he saw coming. He urged and obtained the creation of an emergency relief fund with a fund of $20,000,000 to help the unemployed. The temporary emergency relief commission has already aided 1,000,000 persons, not through a dole, but by work relief to the able-bodied, and home relief of food, shelter, clothing and supplies to the sick and helpless."

"In March 1930 President Hoover was just assuring the nation that prosperity was just around the corner and the turn already in sight. He said there was no large number of destitute people, and declared that the states should take care of their own. The series of relief measures, finally passed through the cooperation of both Democrats and Republicans, were so long delayed that their effect has not yet reached those who need help most."

"His farm policies put nothing in the farmers' pockets. The president's encouragement to the wild orgy of speculation made matters worse, and the Grundy tariff has finally closed the markets of the world to American products from farm and factory."

Francis J. Loughran, candidate for state's attorney declared that he would do all in his power to aid the advocates of the straight Wolf road route to the Lincoln highway.

He pledged himself to the prosecution of all the criminal element and promised that he would conduct the office of state's attorney for the benefit of all the people of the county.

Bernard J. Fay, candidate for county auditor, announced that if elected he would cooperate fully with the Will County Taxpayers Protective association, pledging himself as a matter of good faith to offer Homer Grommon of Wheatland township the post of first deputy auditor. He read a letter that was placed in Mr. Grommon's hands recently offering the chairman of the taxpayers committee the post. He praised the Grommon program for tax reduction and declared he would offer his full cooperation to the committee in the event of his election.

Robert J. Cronin, who with the veteran legislator Michael F. Hennery, seeks the office of general assemblyman, quoted statistics from the United States Department of Commerce, showing the relation of ever-increasing taxes on farm land that has decreased nearly 50 percent in value in recent years. He spoke of the Republican administration, declaring that "the chicken in every pot that Mr. Hoover spoke of in 1928, turned out to be the bologna we have all been eating for the last three years."

Joseph T. O'Neil, candidate for coroner, Alphonse J. Krings, candidate for clerk of the circuit court, and John J. Jenko, candidate for county surveyor spoke briefly in behalf of their candidacies.

It was stated that the meeting was the largest Democratic turnout in many years.

Democratic Rally At Frankfort Oct. 18

A Democratic rally will be held in the Frankfort hall, Tuesday night, October 18th. The principle speaker of the evening will be Hon. Jos. Grien, prominent political economist who will speak for the national and state candidates. Other speakers will be attorneys George N. Blatt, John P. Haley, Thomas Hart, Thomas V. Gorey, Michael F. Hennery and Robert Cronin, candidates for the general assembly and James A. Howell, candidate for congress, also the following county candidates: Francis J. Loughran, Candidate for State's attorney; Bernard Fay, for county auditor; Joseph T. O'Neil, county coroner; J. Bert Blackburn, clerk and recorder; Alphonse Krings, candidate for circuit court clerk.

Balchowsky Store Enters 56th Year

This being the 56th year since the store of B. Balchowsky & Sons started in business in Frankfort, it still remains the land mark of memory in the early settlers minds.

The Balchowsky store is still one of those that has held onto the same standards of service, quality and price originated by B. Balchowsky in 1877.

The management was passed on to Harry Balchowsky who has kept the business on the same high plane as in the past.

The drygoods, clothing, grocery, paints and hardware departments are worthy of anyone's attention, when in need of the above articles.

The first thing one notices upon entering is the welcome "How do you do?" See their adv. on page 8 of this issue.

Mokena School Team Winner

There is no school-to-day due to the fact that a one-day teacher's institute for will County Teachers is being held at the Joliet Township High School. The sessions will begin at 9:30 and 1:20.

There will be no school November 4, since the meeting of the Northeastern Division of the Illinois State Teachers' Association of the Illinois State Teachers' Association will occur on that date at the Joliet Township High School.

On Thursday, October 6, Mokena trimmed Orland Park 13 to 3. Numerous errors by the losers aided in a victory for Mokena. On Friday, October 7, Mokena whipped Mokena in a ragged contest featured by the heavy hitting of the victors. Mokena used three twirlers in an effort to stop the Mokena clouters. A six run rally in the final inning by the losers fell short by one run of tying the score.

Sewing Bee To Aid New Lenox Relief

The New Lenox Relief Organization will hold an all day sewing-Bee Friday, October 14th in the Urch Hall in New Lenox to make garments for the needy. A pot luck dinner will be served at noon. Armed Bandits Holdup Oil Man

Two armed bandits early Friday morning held up LeRoy Mager, aged 24 years as he opened the Elsner Oil Company station near the E. J. & E. Railroad tracks in Frankfort. The men were inside, having gained entrance thru the back door. The bandits tied Mager to a chair and robbed him of $9 in cash, his wrist watch and his automobile. Mager came to work at 6:45 o'clock. The two men were waiting for him and when he unlocked the station they produced their revolvers. After searching his pockets they were about to leave when Henry Mark, a driver for the company reported for duty. They threatened him with their guns and made him stay inside the station while they climbed into Mager's car and drove south. They told Mager that he would find his car later in Joliet. Mark and Mager immediately telephoned state highway police and deputy sheriffs who attempted to watch the highways but failed to locate the bandits. So far Mager has not found his car.

Miss Loretta Schoop Autumn Bride

Miss Loretta Schoop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schoop, Frankfort and Lester Holl of Joliet, son of Mrs. Emily Holl of Mokena, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of the bride Rev. G. S. Gerhold, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church of Frankfort performing the ceremony.

Miss Pearl Christiansen, cousin of the bride and Melton Holl, brother of the bridegroom were the attendants. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Herbert Schoop of Joliet.

The bride was attired in a floor length royal blue transparent velvet gown trimmed in white and she carried an arm bouquet of Johana Hill roses. Miss Christiansen wore a dress of brown pebbly crepe trimmed in velvet and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Following the wedding ceremony, a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Holl will reside in Joliet, where the former is in the employ of the Public Service Company.

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED AT ST. MARY'S HALL IN MOKENA, OCT. 27th

A play "Driftwood" will be given by the former DeSoto Players now the W. C. U. Entertainers at the St. Mary hall in Mokena on the night of October 27th. Watch for further particulars.

Orland Park Legion Post Holds Installation

One of the most impressive and interesting activities of the Orland Park Legion Post, was the installation of the new officers Tuesday night, followed with entertainment and eats galore.

The officers were installed by Glen Suthers, District Commander of the 4th district. He pointed out the excellent record set by the Orland Post which has a 100 per cent record for securing its full quota of members and for exceeding its quota which was set for 45 members, but 48 members have been signed up instead. Orland Park is the first post in the district to accomplish this record.

Commander Suthers further reviewed some of the noteworthy activities of the Orland post the past summer: They held a successful picnic and parade; Did twice as much for relief work as receipts realized from poppy sales came to; staged Easter party for the children of the community.

The following were awarded badges, services bars and jewels in recognition of excellent services rendered to the post:

Addresses were also made by Past District Commander O'Connell under whom the Orland Park post was organized, Otto Raymond of the fourth district, also by Congressman Edward A. Kelly of the third congressional district who told of his activities in Washington for the Legion.

At the close of the program, a fine lunch was served. The long rows of tables were neatly decorated in purple and yellow, the Legion colors.

The ceiling of the hall was tastefully decorated with red, white and blue streamers. The decorative work was done by Commander Herman Kruspe and his loyal assistants. The eats were prepared under the direction of John Andres and his helpers and certainly were extra good.

RED AND BLUE CONTEST CREATING ENTHUSIASM

The monthly meeting of St. John's Evangelical Women's Union (Ladies Aid) will be held Thursday, October 22nd, 1932. At this time each member is requested to give her annual free will offering. This will be her gift instead of donating to a bazaar. Each offering, be it large or small is for Kingdom work, so all are urged to give with a cheerful heart.

Many visitors are also expected as the Red and Blue Contest managers, Mrs. E. Warring and Mrs. E. Lowe are very busy campaigning saving no time or labor to make this a successful meeting. So come and be happy. A short program has been prepared and a good attendance is anticipated.

WOMEN'S UNION MEETS AT DYER, INDIANA

The Monee Convention of north Illinois Evangelical Federation at Dyer, Indiana, October 11th was well attended. Miss Hedwig Schaeffer a returned missionary from Bismarup, India, dressed in native garb gave a most interesting talk on Hindu life and the problems and talks of a missionary. The 20 Women's Unions belonging to the Monee circuit in 1931 paid to the church Federation, mission, social welfare, etc., was $5,245.63 besides sending over 1224 quarts of fruits, jams, 76 1/2 dozen eggs, bushels of fresh fruit and vegetables and clothing to Bensenville and to sick and needy.

The newly elected officers are: Mrs. E. Busekras, Chicago Heights president; Mrs. Frank Marti, Frankfort, financial secretary; Rev. Mr. Kroehler, Papineau, advising pastor.

FRANKFORT GAVE HER HIGHEST VOTE IN DIST. SAYS MRS. O'NEILL

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill appeared before a large crowd of voters at a supper held last Friday in the church basement of the St. Peter's Evangelical church in Frankfort last Friday and in her address declared that Frankfort village or precinct number one of Frankfort township gave her the highest vote in the district outside of her own precinct in Downers Grove at the last election. Mrs. O'Neill is a candidate for the office of representative on the Republican ticket.

A number of other Republican county candidates attended this supper.

Tinley Junior Garden Club News

The regular meeting of the Junior club was held in the gymnasium of the school Saturday, October 1 1932.

The past officers had the honors of introducing the officers elected at the last meeting. Fern Fulton past Pres. welcomed and introduced Josephine Greco as the new president. Mrs. Hug introduced the new Vice-President, Jennie Miknis, Hazel Mancke introduced the newly elected secretary Ruth Freitag, Ruth Freitag introduced the new Treasurer Evelyn Ceithamel. The Garden Buds were very happy to have the new officers take charge of the meeting.

Josephine Greco opened the meeting by extending greetings to all those present.

We were sorry not to have had Mrs. Florence Anderson and Mrs. C. Goel with us.

New chairmen were appointed as follows: Program, Shirley Anderson, Flower Show, Irene LaLonde, Civic, Ruth Ceithamel, Press, Margaret Lorenz, Flower Guild, Marion Andres and Patricia Bagley. Sick, Velma Lorenz, Refreshments, Catherine Hirsch, Reception, Pearl LaLonde, Fern Fulton and Doris Miller. Exchange, Marie Bettenhausen.

Two new members were welcomed into the club, Jeanette Freberg and Loraine Miller.

The buds were delighted with the result of the group picture taken in the park.

Mrs. Rogers read Mrs. W. B. Combs' article printed in the September 30, issue, this was an appeal against killing birds and squirrels. The buds were told to help protect and love the birds and squirrels.

The buds were also instructed to gather and save seeds and clean up their garden pace for next year's garden.

Bouquets were given to all past officers.

Marion Anderson was given a bouquet because of her wonderful work as Jr. Flower Guild chairman.

Mrs. John Funk the Sr. chairman was pleased with the help of this faithful little officer and Marion was again appointed Flower Guild chairman assisted by Patricia Bagley. Patricia made some very lovely bouquets during the season and also deserves praise.

Shirley Anderson was again honored as Program chairman as she and Aunt Alice work together so well. The Jr. club wishes to thank those who so kindly made the lovely bouquets for Marion.

Words of appreciation were read from Mrs. Al. Koehler for the bouquet sent to her daughter during her recent illness.

Mrs. Alice Anderson took charge of the rehearsal.

This concluded a delightful busy afternoon.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED TO FINISH MOKENA SCHOOL YARD IMPROVEMENT

The work of beautifying the Mokena public school grounds is nearing final completion. About a half day's work remains to be done to finish the job. Volunteers to help haul and level the final loads of dirt to complete the improvement work. It is hoped that as many people as are interested in the Mokena school will volunteer their services and help to complete the job. Please be on hand at the school grounds this Saturday morning.

The school board and the P. T. A. are very grateful to those who have helped so splendidly in so many ways. It is a big asset to the community to have a pretty school yard.

Will Co. Board Recinds Action On Fraudulent Petition

(By County News Service)

Acting upon the findings of an investigation conducted under the direction of attorneys Joseph Keig and Gustaf B. Erickson, the Will County board of supervisors Monday voted unanimously to expunge from its records a previous order placing the proposition of abolishing township form of government on the ballot for the November 8 election.

According to Mr. Keig and Mr. Erickson, who spoke before the board outlining the legal duties of that body and presenting evidence obtained by more than thirty investigators, there were 2,013 fraudulent names on the petition which, when presented to the board at its regular September session, purported to contain the names of 10,981 legal voters of the county.

Forty-eight of the 55 members of the county board were present at the special meeting Monday. The Joliet Real Estate Board, which presented the petition last month, was represented at the session by William Mollon, secretary, but no defense was made for the petition by the real estate men.

"Establishment of the commission form of government for the county on the basis of this fraudulent petition would result in chaos", Mr. Erickson told the supervisors. "If the voters cast their ballots in favor of commission rule and commissioners were elected and took office their acts might be successfully contested in the courts at any time. They could not spread an assessment nor perform any other governmental acts which might not be nullified by court procedure because of this illegal petition."

"You were told at your meeting in September," Mr. Erickson continued, "that you had no legal right to investigate the validity of the petition. However, the supreme court has ruled that it is not only your privilege, but your statutory duty to examine such a petition to determine whether or not the law has been complied with."

Mr. Keig presented evidence of more than 30 investigators to the board and explained how the work of the group had been carried out. He also cited supreme court cases in which the court ruled that it was the duty of the supervisors to examine such petitions to determine whether or not the statute had been complied with.

Of the 10,972 names on the petition, 9,963 purported to be those of residents of Joliet township and only 1,009 from the other townships of the county. Names of 21 Mokena residents appeared on the petition.

The voters of the county are disgusted with the corrupt practices followed out and feel if the promoters of this petition resorted to dishonest means to gain their point now, how could they be trusted to safeguard the interests of the people, were they to succeed in establishing a commission form? Dishonesty is to blame for practically all the ills of the nation today.

The board did not charge nor received any fees for the meeting held Monday afternoon.

Giant Concrete Link in the Lincoln Highway

STRETCHING 1,510 feet across the historic Turtle Creek valley just east of Pittsburgh, the giant George Westinghouse bridge forms one of the most picturesque links in the Lincoln highway, in addition to containing the longest reinforced concrete arch in the United States. This arch, (the middle one) is 425 feet long and clears the railroad tracks by 200 feet. The bridge, which has just been dedicated and opened to traffic, is a part of a five-mile improvement costing $4,000,000.

THE BEDTIME STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE QUACKS GROW UNEASY

PETER RABBIT doesn't like the very hot weather of midsummer any more than you or I do. He can't go to the seashore or the mountains as we can, and just think, he has to wear a fur coat all the time! Of course in this respect Peter is not worse off than a lot of his neighbors. In fact none of them likes the very hot weather. So with the coming of the first cool days in September new life seemed to fill Peter. He loves the fall. Next to the spring he likes the fall best. But for two things he thinks he might even like it the best of all the year. Those two things are the parting with old friends who are leaving for the far away sunny Southland, or who are preparing to sleep

"What Are You So Glad About?" Demanded Mr. Quack.

all winter, and the fact that the fall brings the dreadful hunting season when men with terrible guns delight in spreading terror and suffering over the Green Meadows, through the Green Forest, along the Laughing Brook, around the Smiling Pool, up in the Old Pasture and even deep in the Great Woods.

The fall is a busy time for Peter. You see there are so many friends to say good-by to that he is afraid that some will slip away before he sees them. The first of the cool days had already come and Peter knew by things he saw that it would not be long before many of his feathered friends started on their long journey. Everywhere he saw them in flocks now instead of in pairs, as he saw them in the spring. They were making up parties for the long journey, for they prefer to travel in this way. It is quite necessary, because you know there are so many young birds for whom this will be the first time to make the long journey, and they must be shown the way by the older birds. Then it always is much pleasanter to travel with company.

A great party of blackbirds flying over the Old Brier Patch reminded Peter that it was quite likely that certain other friends would soon be starting, among others, the Quack family, who had spent this summer in the pond of Paddy the Beaver. So the first chance he got Peter hurried over to Paddy's Pond deep in the Green Forest. He was half afraid that they might have left already, and he half hoped that they might decide to stay all winter. When he got there he found Mr. and Mrs. Quack and the ten young Quacks, now as big as their father and mother, still there.

"Oh, I'm so glad!" cried Peter. "What are you so glad about?" demanded Mr. Quack, swimming in close to where Peter was sitting on the bank.

"That you are still here," replied Peter. "I was afraid you might have gone away. Are you going to take that terrible journey again this year, Mr. Quack?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Quack. "What else can I do?"

"Why, stay here all winter the same as I do," replied Peter.

"And what would we do when all the water has turned to ice, stupid?" demanded Mr. Quack.

Peter looked foolish. "I hadn't thought of that," said he. "Of course you have to go where the water doesn't freeze. Just the same I think it is dreadful that you have to take that terrible journey."

"It wouldn't be so bad if it were not for the hunters with terrible guns," replied Mr. Quack. "We don't mind the journey; it is the terrible guns. Have you seen any hunters near the Old Brier Patch yet?" Mr. Quack asked this anxiously.

"No," replied Peter.

"This cool weather is sure to bring them out," replied Mr. Quack uneasily. "I almost wish we had started earlier but we have been so happy here this summer that I cannot bear to leave until we have to. What's that?" Mr. Quack started nervously and stretched his head up to listen. All the other ducks did the same thing. It was only the snapping of a twig under Buster Bear's feet, and in a moment he appeared.

At once the ducks dropped their

THREE DESSERTS

THERE comes a time to all housewives when it is impossible to think of anything for dessert which fits the meal she is preparing. Keep a card index of desserts and pick out one that has not recently been used, for we all like variety even in desserts. It is not always the things that sound the best which turn out that way. After preparing food for some time one's judgment should be a good guide, after reading a recipe, as to its palatability; however, some times the strangest concoctions turn out well—so don't be afraid to try a new recipe.

A New Apple Cake.

Take one cupful of flour, a bit of salt, three tablespoonfuls of shortening, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a cupful of milk, two and one-half cupfuls of apple sauce, juice of half a lemon, two egg yolks and one cupful of whipped cream. Rub the shortening into the dry ingredients, using butter, as it gives a better flavor, although any sweet shortening will be good. Pat out and line a pie plate. Mix apple sauce, lemon, egg yolks and bake until the crust is brown and filling firm. Cover with whipped cream or the whites of the eggs may be used as a meringue.

Simple Charlotte.

For this use the little nut cups about an inch high and two inches in diameter. Split lady fingers and line the cups, letting the cake come up an inch above the tops. Fill the cups with lightly sweetened whipped cream and top with a tiny macaroon or a cherry. One may use any color scheme for this light dessert.

Boston Cream Pie.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until creamy, add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and add one cupful of sugar very slowly, beating well, then add two teaspoonfuls of grated lemon peel, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one cupful of flour folded after the beaten egg whites have been added. Sift the flour several times to make it very light. The layers will be very thin. Now to one cupful of whipped cream add three beaten egg whites. Sweeten and flavor and spread over the cake. Ice with a chocolate frosting.

heads and began swimming about again, for they did not fear Buster Bear. But it was very clear that they were uneasy, very uneasy, indeed, especially Mr. and Mrs. Quack. The young Quacks had had no experience with hunters, but they were uneasy, too. The truth is they were anxious to try their wings. They were looking forward to that long journey as something very wonderful. They were anxious to be on their way. Something inside was urging them to start for their beautiful Southland. It is often that way with the young. They did not fear because they did not know.

Dental Bird

The crocodile, when it feels the need of the services of a dental hygienist, climbs out on the bank of the river in which it makes its home, opens its huge mouth invitingly and waits.

In due time a bird known as the Nile-bird comes along, sees the job waiting for it and goes to work. It hops into the crocodile's mouth and picks off all the leeches and other foreign forms of life which may be clinging to the tongue and cavity walls of the crocodile, and then departs. The reptile then closes its mouth and with not so much as a thank you slides back into the water to accumulate another job for another Nile-bird.

WON IN THREE BABY SHOWS

Mother gives credit to Eagle Brand

● Little ROSE MARIE HAGGERTY of Pueblo, Colo., at 1 year, 7 months.

"WE STARTED our baby on Eagle Brand at three months," writes Mrs. W. F. Haggerty, 1016 Carterette Ave., Pueblo, Colo., "and she is perfect now. She has won in three baby shows, and I think Eagle Brand ought to have the credit. She is 1 year, 8 months old now, and has never been sick, not even a cold—and I will send our family doctor's statement if you wish.

"The texture of her skin is just like velvet. I sure have praised Eagle Brand, for I think it has made her beautiful.

"The other day, I was visiting at the hospital and one of the men called a doctor to see her and he asked was she bottle fed and when I told him Eagle Brand, he said, 'Well, Eagle Brand ought to see her' so that is why I am sending the picture."

Ways of the Kurds

Kurdistan is a province in Persia inhabited largely by Kurds, a race of wild and lawless people. Kurds also are found in Turkey and Russia, where they live in the mountainous regions and mix brigandage with their nomadic traits. There are approximately 800,000 Persian Kurds, 1,650,000 Turkish Kurds, and 50,000 Russian Kurds. Although the Kurds are a wild and somewhat primitive race, they take great pride in their ancestry, many families tracing their descent back to the Omayyad caliphs, Sinna, the capital of Kurdistan, is famous for its beautiful rugs, some of which bring handsome prices.

Slowest Train Discovered

Australia believes it has the slowest train in the world. It is the "tea and sugar" special, which carries stores from Port Augusta to settlers along the route to Kalgoorlie. The schedule calls for a week to travel the 1,051 miles, and a week for the return trip. Practically the only passenger is William Cowan, the railway's undenominational missionary, whose "parish" covers the entire line. He carries hundreds of newspapers for distribution on each trip.

Museum of Sounds

An "audible museum" or a museum of sounds has been organized in Berlin under the direction of the ministry of ports. Here there is a gigantic collection of phonographic records representing calls, music and characteristic noises of all kinds. This includes the wail of the Korean, the merry song of the Rumanian tailor, the whoop of the American cowboy and the lingering call of the Spanish night watchman. There are also records of the voices of many distinguished persons.

Swift as a bolt of lightning the flash leaped upon them and shook their hearts with terror and darkness fell as quickly as the light had risen. For those affrighted ones it was like the flying open of the doors of hell. For only a fraction of a second they were blinded by the glare of its flames. It may have revealed to one of them the fathomless deep of his own wickedness. The girl gave a little cry as they fled. Hidden behind the broad base of the big tree Shad had not been able to see them, but he had seen the light fling itself through the tops and slender columns beyond him. He sat still. Out near the edge of the thicket he could dimly hear a sound like that of smothered sobbing. This for only a moment. Then receding footsteps!

Silence fell again. Not until long after he had heard Miss Spenlow's clock tolling the hour of midnight did he arise from his station behind the tree. As he did so he heard a team starting away from some point near Smithers' store. Groping in the darkness he found the camera and covered its lens. He picked up his things and set out for the doctor's house. His learned friend slept in a bedroom on the first floor. Shad tapped on a window-pane in accordance with the doctor's request. The good man arose and opened the front door.

"Well, what luck?"

"They came and I guess that I've got the photograph."

"Good work, my boy!" the doctor exclaimed as he patted the shoulder of his young friend. "I'll put the camera in my dark room and show you to your bed. Perhaps we shall sleep better if we do not know what it has to tell us until morning."

Shed went to bed. His excitement kept him awake until the keen-eyed cocks had seen the light of dawn. When he arose at eight o'clock his venerable friend was at breakfast. He looked very grave.

"Have you developed the photograph?" Shad asked.

"Yes, and it is successful," said the doctor. "I was not surprised but I was deeply saddened. The whole tragic story is now as clear to me as the street I see through yonder window. I hope that you will not mind if I ask you to let the secret lie with me until it is given to Colonel Blake. It is properly his secret. The situation has come to its climax. The time for decisive action has arrived. I think that you had better go to the county seat and get in touch with the district attorney wherever he may be and tell him that he is needed here at once. I am going down to Ashfield and can take you to the train as well as not. Do you think that they saw you when the flash came?"

"I am sure that they did not. I was so hidden that I could not see them."

He gave the scraps of conversation that he had overheard.

"Ah! I thought so. It's a kind of verbal flashlight on the past."

There was a call on the telephone. The doctor answered it.

"I'll be there in a few minutes," he said.

Turning to Shad he announced: "The girl is sick this morning and no wonder. While you finish your breakfast I'll go and see what I can do for her."

The doctor returned, saying: "Her heart is a bit troublesome. She'll get better. Naturally she is a little depressed."

He put a sealed envelope in Shad's hands.

"Therein is the photograph of the man who killed Oscar Perry. Please give it to your chief and tell him how we came by it. I think that when he looks at this photograph he will know how it all came about. If not I can tell him."

They got into the buckboard and drove away. Soon after they set out Shad remarked:

"I had waited a long time in the darkness when I heard Miss Spenlow's clock strike eleven. A little later I heard a team cross the bridge. I knew that it had come from Ashfield. It stopped somewhere near. Probably in the shed at Smithers' store. I said to myself, 'There is Royce.' In a little while they walked into the trap."

"A curious kind of a man!" the doctor exclaimed. "He is ill this morning and has sent for me."

"I wonder how he learned that the girl was in Miss Spenlow's."

"How could every one help learning it with dear Miss Spenlow's tongue as limber as it is?"

They rode on in silence. Shad was just in time for his train. Near the depot in Canton a little before twelve o'clock he met Ruth Blake. He was on his way to the office.

"You are going wrong," she said.

"How so?"

"Why because you are to eat luncheon with mother and me. Mother wants to have a talk with you. Come on."

"I have got to see your father."

"He will not get here until seven o'clock tonight. He's been to Chicago."

"But I want to go to my room and change my linen and put on my very best suit of clothes."

"Why all that fussing?"

"I must be dressed like a gentleman. If it was any other girl I wouldn't care."

Ruth blushed. "That's a pretty joke," she answered, looking into his eyes. "Hurry and we'll wait for you."

CHAPTER XIII

The Truth Crushes Its Enemy.

Sheridan Morryson, now a distinguished lawyer, has written in a volume of reminiscences, not to be released for publication until he has been lying ten years in his grave, that a boy ought to be careful in making the memories that are to go with him up the road.

He has given the historian a limited right of quoting from this record of his early life. He writes:

I see mostly darkness when I look back upon my young boyhood. It was the darkness of ignorance and oppression with which I could not be content. But as I look a light falls upon my way. It came from gentle friendly faces. Mostly it was the light that shone out of the big honest, blue eyes of a young girl. I began to feel the stir of a new life in me. In a little time the restless, daring, adventurous human being that I am was born. He knew his way. No task was too great for him. He had a strange faith in his heart that no undertaking was beyond his strength. If it was an illusion it was worth having.

I knew mean and sordid people. These I have almost forgotten. But I do not forget or underestimate the kindly help of Mrs. Smithers, in spite of her narrowness, or the gentle severity of Betsy Spenlow, or the great heart of Bumpy Brown. Especially I remember the keen intellect and fatherly counsel of the beloved doctor and the generosity of Mr. Converse and of Colonel and Mrs. Blake. Above all these forces that have helped to make me the man I am is that light which, long ago, shone upon me out of a girl's eyes.

I was a romantic young knight of the age of chivalry when, that day in December, elated by my success in Amity Dam I came to Colonel Blake's house. I sat down at the table with Ruth and her mother. Cautiously I tried to ease the fullness of my heart.

"Forgive me if I look at you too much," I said to the beautiful girl. "It is winter. There are no flowers. The trees are bare and my eyes long for something good to look at."

Mrs. Blake smiled, saying: "I suggest that you turn your eyes on that portrait of a lovely lady looking down at you from the wall."

"She is very grand but her eyes tell me no secret. Her lips do not speak to me. My heart beats no faster when I look at her."

Chemist Eulogizes Sea in Transport of Words

"O Sea! Thou saline and undulant aqueous solution of halides, carbonates, phosphates, sulphates, and other soluble inorganic compounds! What mysterious colloids are dispersed within thy slightly alkaline bosom? What silent and unseen reactions vibrate in dynamic equilibrium, constantly destroyed and instantly restored, among thy unnumbered oscillating molecules? What uncounted myriads of restless ions migrate perpetually throughout thy tentatively estimated volume? What unguessed phenomena of catalysis, metathesis, and osmosis transpire in thy secret fluid profundities under excessively increased pressure? What cosmic precipitates descend in countless kilograms upon thy argillaceous, gelatinous, siliceous, diatomaceous, and totally unilluminated bottom? In short, most magnificent reservoir, what is thy flow-chart and complete analysis?"—Norman L. Knight, in "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry."

These things I tell so that those who read may know that I had an active imagination and a spirit not quite fitted to my time. Extravagance in dress and speech was the keynote of my youth. The ladies liked me. Some men did not. Those who said that I was a born liar have never understood me. They will not understand me now when I say that there is no one so uninteresting as a born truth teller whose veracity has the precision of mathematics. Mrs. Blake knew my heart. She faced me about with these words.

"Dear boy, I know that you mean what you say but you are on forbidden ground. Did I not warn you to keep off the grass?"

She was smiling. My ardor had amused her.

"True! But when you gave me that warning you thought that I was a child. Since Colonel Blake has told me that I have done the work of a man. He does not know it, but I have helped to solve the mystery which has baffled us so long. I present it to him."

She took my hand in hers—a gentle motherly gesture. She said:

"You are a boy of a thousand—brave, thoughtful, keen-minded—a gentleman. I am proud of you. But you are only a boy in years, even if you are a man in accomplishment. You must be patient and wait a while before you can be engaged to marry."

"I can wait but the thought of it is like a knife in my heart. I shall have to go away where I can not see her. When I take her hand in mine, when I look into her eyes, my heart is telling her of my love. I should think that I might as well say it with my tongue. Why not?"

I wonder not that she laughed.

"I think that you are a born pleader," she answered. "The judge decides against you, but you can take your case to a higher court. Why do you not appeal to the colonel?"

Ruth had been silent but amused by these proceedings. I turned to her and asked: "Have I your permission to appeal?"

I think that she never looked so beautiful as when she turned to me and answered quite seriously: "Of course we'll appeal. Mother knows how to bribe him."

"I shall be scared. I know what he will do. He will remind me of the brass cannon and tell me that he uses it to shoot at young fellows who want to marry his daughter."

Then Mrs. Blake offered a suggestion which betrayed her sympathy. It was this:

"You will say that you are not the kind of man who finds discouragement at the cannon's mouth."

I arose and went to her side and kissed her. I knew that my case was more than half won.

This much is taken directly from the memoirs of the accomplished lawyer and statesman. It accurately reflects the romantic fervor of his temperament, the forces that lifted him out of the slough of his boyhood and started him on his triumphant way, the pride he took in the approval of the friends who had done so much for him. The illuminating passage should be associated with the query which ends his review of an unusual and most happy career. It is:

"How, in any land save this, could a boy, born as I was and bound for many years to a life of hard conditions, have won the friends, the peace, the plenty that have long been mine?"

Colonel Blake returned that evening from his journey in the West, bringing good news. He said:

"Algrye has been convicted. I have in my pocket a sworn confession of his part in the crime at Amity Dam. The doctor's theory was correct. The plan was Algrye's. He planted the revolver and the cartridges on Bumpy Brown. He was to get a certain sum of money. He got only half of it." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

MOKENA

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bruce and son Mark of Madison, Wisconsin who are enroute to the south where they will spend the winter, have been spending this week at the home of their old time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Hall and families.

The Mokena school yard has been beautified the past week with the planting of shrubbery, fir trees and the yard was seeded with grass seed. Shrubs have been planted on both sides of the walk leading to the south entrance of the school house. A sun dial has been installed on the foundation prepared for it several years ago at the south entrance of the school grounds.

Jack Horras who underwent a serious operation in the St. Joseph hospital in Joliet last Tuesday, is improving quite nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Oestreich of Joliet were guests in the William Semmler home Sunday.

Miss Grace Nielsen entertained a company of eight friends from Chicago at a bridge party in her home Saturday evening.

The Iris Unit of the Mokena Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Albert Braun last Monday in regular session. Plans were made for a Halloween Party to be held at the home of Mrs. Braun on the evening of October 31st. On Monday night the Iris unit met at the home of the program chairman, Miss Dorothy Hall to complete plans for the party.

"PAINTING YELLOW HOUSE" WAS OPERATOR'S CLUE

All she knew about the man was that he was painting a house yellow somewhere in the Ballard district of Seattle, Wash., but that did not deter the long distance telephone operator when she was asked by a Tacoma woman to try to locate her husband. A number of yellow houses were being painted at this time, it was discovered, but the husband was found within half an hour from the time the message was received.

POLICE SWITCHBOARD A BUSY PLACE IN WASHINGTON

During the fiscal year which ended on June 30, 1931, there were 9,955 emergency calls and alarms telephoned to the police headquarters switchboard in Washington, D. C. These calls were made to report all kinds of accidents, fires, crimes and other matters which required immediate police attention.

Service Standard Upheld, Says Bell System Head

"The success of the Bell System depends in times of depression as well as in times of prosperity on its concentration on its main objective—a telephone service for the nation, free so far as humanly possible from imperfections, errors or delays, and enabling at all times anyone, anywhere, to pick up a telephone and talk to anyone else, anywhere else, clearly, quickly and at a reasonable cost. The efforts of management, with the whole-hearted co-operation of the entire personnel, continued to be directed toward that objective with the result that, in spite of the unsettled business conditions, the telephone service in 1931 was never more uniformly satisfactory."
—President Walter S. Gifford,
American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in his report to stockholders for 1931.

What Can You Do For The Pains Of Rheumatism?

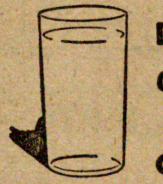

Pain Ended In Few Minutes, This Way

It has now been discovered by thousands of rheumatic sufferers that the pains of that distressing disorder can be eased in as little as a few minutes... relief and comfort in almost as little time as it takes to tell!

Doctors advise two tablets of Bayer Aspirin taken with a full glass of water. Then a rest of a few minutes... and that is all. Pain is eased quickly—sometimes almost unbelievably.

Relief comes so fast because of the peculiar quick-dissolving property of Genuine Bayer Aspirin. The tablets you take dissolve almost INSTANTLY in your stomach. And thus you get practically instant relief. The fastest, safer relief—it is said.

Remember it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which claims this quick-dissolving, quick-acting property. So be careful that you get the real article when you buy. See that any box or bottle you purchase is clearly marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." And that any tablet you take has the name "Bayer" stamped on it in the form of a cross. Then you will get quick relief.

Remember that when you buy. And remember, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin Does Not Harm the Heart.

GRAY HAIRS BRING DEATH TO RULERS

Zulus Have No Use for Infirm Monarchs.

Because the Mohammedan Filipinos whose spiritual chief is the sultan of Sulu think that his cigarette smoking and attendance at cabarets may have provoked Allah to send a disastrous typhoon in April, the sultan is losing prestige. The sultan of Sulu may lose prestige and consider himself fortunate; the king of Zululand in similar case would have lost his life. That, at least, is Frazer's belief, expressed in "The Golden Bough," and based on a traveler's tale of a Zulu ruler's interest in hair oil. The Zulu feared the coming of gray hairs, "which would at once be the signal for him to prepare to make his exit from this sublunary world," and Frazer found evidence that in many lands kings were killed when they began to age, in time of misfortune, or at the expiration of a fixed term.

In the minds of their subjects, spiritual or magical powers resided in these fated rulers along with or to the exclusion of temporal authority, and to primitive folk it was obvious that an infirm magician would cast only feeble spells. They expected their kings to bring good weather, plentiful crops and all manner of good things, but they were not so unreasonable as to expect a doddering or ailing person to succeed in this, so they killed him at or before the first sign of decay and substituted a hale ruler. It was on such a principle that the Aztecs killed the representatives of gods, speedily providing new, robust incarnations, and the idea underlies many blood sacrifices. Many kings, and many of these in Africa, are in Frazer's list of those who had this good reason to wear crowns uneasily. When the subjects of the Matiamvo, an emperor in the interior of Angola, decided that "in consequence of his great exactions"—this is a practical note—he had lived long enough, they would invite him to make war on their enemies and in the midst of battle abandon him and his family. Seeing himself thus deserted, he would cause his throne to be erected, and call his family about him, to behold them one by one, beginning with his mother and ending with his most beloved wife. Two neighboring chiefs had the duty of sending an officer to strike off the Matiamvo's legs and arms at the joints, then cut off his head. The officer was himself killed as soon as he had done this. The two chiefs took the Matiamvo's property, but it was ransomed for forty slaves, and went to the new Matiamvo.—New York Sun.

Wonders of Imagination

Imagination enables a man to sit back in a comfortable office chair and wish he was far away in the country sitting on a rail fence.—Life.

Should one say grace over a table extravagantly loaded?

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty. At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson,
Illinois Press Association, editor

Breaking the monthly record for the year, 9,806 new babies arrived in Illinois during July, while the undertaking business slumped under the pressure of an unusually low mortality rate measured by 6,529 deaths, according to statistics issued by the state department of public health. The number of births stood 342 above the June record and was higher by 99 than the record for March, which is second highest.

In a radio address delivered over station KMOX at St. Louis on September 19, A. C. Everingham, state farm and garden consultant, connected with the Illinois department of public welfare, asserted that beef cattle feeding has proved profitable at a number of the farms which help to feed upward of 44,000 wards of Illinois.

Chicago teachers, through the all-city publicity committee, representing 350 schools, have appealed to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, asking him to recommend to a member of the legislature that a bill be introduced to enable the teachers to undertake tax collections under direction of the Cook county collector.

Building projects authorized in Illinois during August represented gains of 17.4 per cent in the number of projects and 7.1 per cent in the total estimated expenditure as compared to July, according to the regular monthly building report which has been made public by the Illinois department of labor.

The so-called gateway amendment, providing for an amendment to the constitution permitting the submission of three proposed changes to the constitution, instead of one, as at present, will be voted on at the general election in November, in compliance with a recent act of the general assembly. The amendment will be printed to the left of the official ballot.

Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, is scheduled to speak at the annual conference for district four, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held at Monmouth on October 5. He will talk on "Maintaining Educational Standards."

The state department of public works and buildings has announced its approval of two Cook county, state-aid road contracts that will provide $196,358.36 worth of construction work on the Cook county highway system.

Of the 33 bills introduced in the special relief session of the Illinois legislature on the opening day, one gives promise of creating thousands of new jobs without cost to the taxpayer. This is the proposed state housing act which provides for setting up immediately the supervisory machinery which is necessary if the Reconstruction Finance corporation money is to be available to finance self-liquidating housing and slum-reclamation projects in Illinois. The proposed act, prepared and submitted by the Illinois housing commission, of which Alfred G. Stern is chairman, creates a new class of private corporations, called housing corporations, to acquire land and to construct buildings. It is estimated that 30,000 mechanics will have jobs, not considering the countless thousands in industries necessary to serve the building workers.

The Illinois coal report for August shows a total output of 1,670,200 tons from the 84 shipping mines in operation during the month. This is an increase of 123 per cent over July production.

E. C. Horner, chief poultryman in Illinois department of agriculture, has certified to the American Poultry association, the awards in 95 distinct classifications of the poultry department of the Illinois state fair of 1932, the first exhibition of its kind to be given complete recognition by the national organization.

The wards of Illinois, maintained at the state's institutions conducted by the department of public welfare, produced, for their own sustenance, last year, 1,873,865 pounds of dressed pork, 107,901 pounds of dressed beef, 46,758 pounds of veal, 981,664 gallons of milk and 38,247 dozens of eggs.

O. R. Dally, associate of Roy C. Toombs & Dally, Chicago brokerage house, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary after his plea of guilty to the charge of using the mails to defraud. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward suspended the sentence because of Dally's health, and admitted him to five years' probation.

The state department of public works and buildings has announced awards of state highway contracts that call for more than $1,000,000 worth of work, well scattered over Illinois. The contracts include 35.52 miles of highway paving which form a part of the federal emergency construction projects, 30.98 miles of city paving, and a bridge.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 16

THE HOME AND THE COMING GENERATION

Genesis 18:17-19; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; I Samuel 1:24-28; Mark 10:13-16; II Timothy 1:5, 6.

GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Timothy's Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Honoring God in Our Homes.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping to Make Our Homes Better.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Home Ideals for Today and Tomorrow.

I. The Home Which Is to Be (Gen. 18:17-19).

The particular home in mind here is Abraham's. He was not only to become the head of a home, in the ordinary sense, but also the head of a nation through which particular blessings should come to the whole world.

1. Abraham to be the head of the home (v. 18). The husband is the head according to divine arrangement. How blessed it is when the lawful head of the home recognizes his responsibility, and in the fear of God seeks to discharge it.

2. Abraham's responsibility for instruction of his family (v. 19). God was about to destroy Sodom. The interests of humanity were at stake in the judgment upon this wicked city. It was God's purpose that Abraham should teach his descendants as to God's purpose through them. It is a father's solemn responsibility to teach his children the purpose and ways of God so that they may in turn take their place and become a blessing to the world.

II. God's Word, the Foundation of the Home (Deut. 6:4-9).

The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly. It remains in the home for a long time, to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God. To teach God's Word to the children is a solemn obligation imposed upon parents.

1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

a. The unity of God (v. 4). This fundamental truth should be lodged in the mind of the child in its tender years.

b. Man's supreme obligation to God (v. 5). It is to love God supremely—heart, soul, and mind.

2. How the truth of God is to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

a. It is to be diligently taught to the children (v. 7). This is a responsibility that dare not be delegated even to the Sunday school and church.

b. It should be talked of to the children everywhere and under all circumstances (v. 7). Impressions will thus be made upon the mind which cannot be effaced.

c. It is to be bound upon the hands and placed as frontlets between the eyes (v. 8).

d. It is to be written upon the posts of the house (v. 9).

III. Children Should Be Dedicated to the Lord (I Sam. 1:24-28).

The union of man and woman in holy marriage is for the propagation of the race. Parents have a solemn responsibility and should esteem it a great privilege to give their children to the Lord. The example of Hannah in giving Samuel to the Lord should encourage all parents to follow her example. According to her vow, she took Samuel to the sanctuary and gave him over to the priest, to assist in the ministry in the Lord's house.

IV. Jesus' Attitude Toward Children (Mark 10:13-16).

1. Mothers desired that Jesus might touch their children (v. 13). Doubtless they had witnessed the healing power of His touch and coveted it for their children. All Christian parents want their children to come into contact with Jesus Christ.

2. The disciples' rebuke (v. 13). Thinking the children were too insignificant to engage Jesus' attention, they rebuked the mothers for bringing them to him.

3. Jesus' reply (v. 14). He declared that of such is the kingdom. Therefore, the children have a right in the presence of the King.

4. Jesus blessed the little children (v. 16). He took them up in his arms and blessed them. Christianity is peculiarly favorable to children.

V. The Godly Home (II Tim. 1:5, 6).

Timothy's wise and faithful mother and grandmother carefully nurtured him in God's Word. He knew the Scriptures from childhood through their training. His faith came to him not through laws of heredity but through the careful teaching of God's Word. The factors involved were godly ancestors, a Christian home, and diligent study of the Scriptures.

WORDS OF WISDOM

Love never covets.

Self-conceit is always a hard master.

Pride is always hard on a man's clothes.

Many a man behaves himself because he has to.

Continue to wink at a sin and you will fail to see it.

Had a Poor Opinion of the "Bald" Eagle

Although the great naturalist, John James Audubon, expressed admiration for the American or white-headed eagle, also known as the bald eagle, because of its great strength, daring and cool courage, and its unequalled power of flight, he was of the opinion that its undesirable qualities were so many that the selection of this bird as our national emblem was an unhappy choice. In this he expressed agreement with Benjamin Franklin, as is indicated in the following, taken from Audubon's "An Account of the Habits of the birds of the United States of America."

"In concluding this account of the white-headed eagle, suffer me, kind reader, to say how much I grieve that it should have been selected as the emblem of my country. The opinion of our great Franklin on this subject, as it perfectly coincides with my own, I shall here present to you. 'For my part,' says he, 'in one of his letters, I wish the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country. He is a bird of bad moral character; he does not get his living honestly; you may have seen him perched on some dead tree, where, too lazy to fish for himself, he watches the labor of the fishing hawk; and when that diligent bird has at length taken a fish, and is bearing it to his nest for the support of his mate and young ones, the bald eagle pursues him, and takes it from him. With all this injustice, he is never in good caste, but, like those among men who live by sharpening and robbing, he is generally poor, and often very lousy. Besides, he is a rank coward; the little king bird, not bigger than a sparrow, attacks him boldly, and drives him out of the district.'

As Emerson Saw Success in Life

Emerson said:

"If our young men miscarry in their first enterprises they lose all heart. If the young merchant fails, men say he is ruined. If the finest genius studies at one of our colleges, and is not installed in an office within one year afterwards, it seems to his friends and to himself that he is right in being disheartened and in complaining the rest of his life."

"A sturdy lad who in turn tries all the professions, who teams it, farms it, peddles, keeps a school, preaches, edits a newspaper, goes to congress, buys a township and so forth, in successive years, and always like a cat falls on his feet, is worth a hundred of these city dolls."

"He walks abreast with his days and feels no shame in not 'studying a profession,' for he does not postpone his life, but lives already. He has not one chance, but a hundred chances."

"Let a stoic arise who shall reveal the resources of man and tell men they are not leaning willows, but can and must detach themselves; that with the exercise of self-trust, new powers shall appear; that a man is the Word made flesh, born to shed healing to the nations, that he should be ashamed of our compassion, and that the moment he acts from himself, tossing the laws, the books, the idolatries and customs out of the window, we pity him no more but thank and revere him."

Scientific Advice for the Short in Stature

News for short men. Do not despair, for you may yet add a cubit to your stature, if you but lie down. Height, says Dr. Carroll E. Palmer, increases slightly in the reclining individual. The increase varies with height and sex, and is somewhat greater in men than in women.

The observed extension was sometimes as much as one inch. Doctor Palmer came upon this odd phenomenon in the course of an investigation at Johns Hopkins for the purpose of finding a basis of comparison between the height tables of infants.

Equality Before the Law

Bailliff—Mrs. O'Noodle, you are summoned to serve on the jury.

Mrs. O'Noodle—It is the grand jury?

Bailliff—No, the petit jury.

Mrs. O'Noodle—Then I shall not serve. You put Mrs. Umtdiddle on the grand jury, and I'm just as good as she is.

All Settled

Mary—"I hear you intend to teach after you are graduated?" Carrie—"Yes, and I have the man already picked out."

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3855 1/2 Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

To avoid inferior imitations of California Fig Syrup, always look for the word "California" on the carton.

Not Much Difference

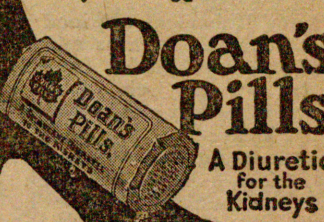

"Have you bought a loud speaker?" "No, my wife is back from the seaside."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Don't Neglect Kidney and Bladder Irregularities

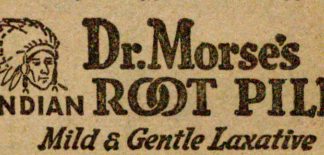

If bothered with bladder irregularities, getting up at night and nagging backache, heed promptly these symptoms. They may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition. For 50 years grateful users have relied upon Doan's Pills. Praised the country over. Sold by all druggists.

Some women's only interest in life is to dress to kill.

Housewives who are kept indoors working and caring for others commonly neglect themselves. Sick headaches, backaches, and worn out feeling are symptoms of poison in the system caused by constipation. Don't neglect nature's warning. Take Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills to clear your stomach and intestinal tract. A favored remedy for fifty years. At all druggists.

ORLAND

OBITUARY

Mrs. Christina Storz, wife of Henry Storz, passed away October 6th at her home after a lingering illness of 15 months following a paralytic stroke. Funeral services were held on last Sunday afternoon from the late home to the Christ Lutheran church in Orland Park. A very large number of relatives and friends came to pay their last tributes of respect.

Rev. A. Lach, officiated and based his sermon on Psalm 37:5 and Rev. 14:13. The services were in German and English. Burial was in the Orland Lutheran Cemetery.

Mrs. Storz nee Habenicht attained the age of 71 years, 11 months and 13 days. She was born Nov. 19, 1860 in Chicago. In her early childhood she removed with her parents to Orland township. She received thorough religious instruction and was confirmed in 1874 by Rev. J. H. C. Martin, former pastor of Trinity Lutheran church at Bachelors Grove.

April 13, 1879 she was united in holy wedlock with Henry Storz. The union was blessed with six children of whom two predeceased the mother in death. Surviving are the bereaved husband, one son Charles of Steger, Ill., three daughters, Mrs. John F. Schmadeke, Mrs. Philip Ebeling, Mrs. Wm. Grosskopf, all of Orland; one brother C. F. Habenicht, 19 grandchildren, seven great grand children and many other relatives.

Since 1897 the Storz family have been faithful and active members of the Christ Lutheran church at Orland

Locate Person Wanted

His address: North Dakota. That's all the information Valley City, N. D., telephone operators had when asked to locate Carl B. Swanson, who was wanted because of an emergency—and they succeeded in finding him after calling ninety-three different towns in the state.

Mr. Swanson was traveling for the Deere and Weber Company and, contrary to his usual custom, he had left no word as to the route he would take, nor the cities or towns he would visit. The hunt began on a Friday afternoon. Various places were tried, first in the western part of the state, and, as the travelers of old would follow a river or stream, the telephone operators followed the path of the railroad, first to the west and then northward to the border.

Eventually they located a place where Mr. Swanson had been just a few days before, and it appeared as if they were closing in on their man. However, the clue led to nowhere, and the trail which had become plain began to grow dimmer and dimmer. He was finally located at Bowdon, due to the fact that he had made reservation at a local hotel in advance.

It took seven hours and ten minutes for the operators to complete the call, but, like the Canadian Mounted Police, they "got their man." Hotels and boarding houses, garages and gasoline filling stations, implement dealers, residences and stores were called during the time the search was being conducted.

There are more than one million holders of Bell System securities, divided as follows: common stockholders, 700,000; preferred stockholders, 115,000; bondholders (estimated), 245,000.
